So here's the tracking log for my copy of Halo ODST which is now a day late and has yet to arrive. Talk about the long route. It starts in Coffeyville, KS and makes its way to Tulsa, OK. Everything's looking good so far, it's at least heading towards Austin. But then we get a nice long detour to Louisville, KY - Kentucky? Really? Yes, I'm sure everyone when driving from Tulsa, OK to Austin decides to take a nice detour through Kentucky. From there it makes its way to Dallas, TX and finally is now in Austin "out for delivery." Perhaps I should have just gone to the store?
